Abstract
The goal of this study is to examine the characteristics of scholarly communication, with particular emphasis on the usage of the monograph, in the field of Spanish and Latin American literature over a 30-year period. In addition, this study examines the age of materials referenced in an effort to gain insight into the shelf-life of these materials. Although monographs and literary works predominated, the usage of volumes of collected essays showed significant increase. Monographs, collected essays, and journal articles published within the preceding 20–25 years were most referenced.

Full Text: PDF

DOI: https://doi.org/10.5860/0710009

Copyright 2010 © David S. Nolen
Article Views (By Year/Month)

2020
January: 0
February: 0
March: 0
April: 2
May: 0
June: 1
July: 1
August: 2
September: 0
October: 2
November: 0

2019
January: 2
February: 3
March: 3
April: 1
May: 1
June: 3
July: 1
August: 3
September: 5
October: 0
November: 0
December: 0

2018
January: 0
February: 1
March: 4
April: 2
May: 2
June: 1
July: 1
August: 3
September: 1
October: 1
November: 1
December: 2

2017
April: 0
May: 2
June: 1
July: 3
August: 2
September: 2
October: 2
November: 1
December: 3
Recent papers in Spanish and Latin American Contemporary Literature. Papers. People. Este texto sintetiza las opiniones que creadoras, libreras, editorxs, y profesoras compartieron a propósito de la representación de la mujer en el canon en dos mesas redondas organizadas por el grupo de investigación ESCODIS (Estudios more. The end-of-century heuristic shift in the study of world literature introduced by Pascale Casanova and other critics has provided new tools of literary analysis in need of testing within discrete and concrete fields. Casanova’s more. The end-of-century heuristic shift in the study of world literature introduced by Pascale Casanova and other critics has provided new tools of literary analysis in need of testing within discrete and concrete fields. Request PDF | Characteristics of la literatura: A Reference Study of Spanish and Latin American Literature | The goal of this study is to examine the characteristics of scholarly communication, with particular emphasis on the usage of the monograph, in | Find, read and cite all the research you need on ResearchGate. The goal of this study is to examine the characteristics of scholarly communication, with particular emphasis on the usage of the monograph, in the field of Spanish and Latin American literature over a 30-year period. In addition, this study examines the age of materials referenced in an effort to gain insight into the shelf-life of these materials. Although monographs and literary works predominated, the usage of volumes of collected essays showed significant increase.