Pastoral man in the garden of Eden: the Maasai of the Ngorongoro conservation area, Tanzania

Kaj Århem, Pastoral Man in the Garden of Eden: the Maasai of the Ngorongoro conservation area, Tanzania, Uppsala Research Reports in Cultural Anthropology. Uppsala: University of Uppsala and the Scandinavian Institute of African Studies, Uppsala, 1985, 123 pp., SEK 70.-, 91-7106-232-7. Paul Spencer (a1). (a1). School of Oriental and African Studies, London. DOI: https://doi.org/10.2307/1160194. Published online by Cambridge University Press: 07 December 2011. Ngorongoro Conservation Area also has its fair share of human interest activities. A visit to a Maasai cultural village is a must, as is a trip to Olduvai Gorge. Here, one can follow the story of world-famous archaeologists Louis and Mary Leakey, who made several discoveries in the immediate area that changed our understanding of human evolution. There is a wide choice of accommodation options in the Ngorongoro Conservation Area, ranging from luxury lodges on the rim of the crater itself to budget-conscious tented camps. For ultimate decadence, consider a stay at the iconic andBeyond Ngorongoro Crater Lodge, where 30 sumptuous suites boast Versailles-inspired decor and breathtaking crater views. The Ngorongoro Conservation Area (NCA), occupying 8,292 km² of northern Tanzania, is unique among East Africa’s protected areas because of its multiple land-use status. This distinction includes the...