Kan In Don Nah (All Are Welcome Here): A Framework for Developing Intercultural Worship Practice at First Chin Baptist Church of New Bern, North Carolina

Janice Daynette Snead, Gardner-Webb University

Date of Award
2019

Document Type
Project

Degree Name
Doctor of Ministry (DMin)

Committee Chair
Danny West

Abstract
The process of intercultural ministry across human boundaries is modeled throughout the ministry of Jesus Christ. Regardless of culture, the scriptures actively engage understanding of God’s Word for all the people and His love to reach each one. This project sought to encourage a biblical understanding of intercultural discipleship by guiding the worshiping community of First Chin Baptist Church through a four-week ministry project to welcome and worship with non-Chin guests. Through a series of study on John 21:1-17, the community discovered a new biblical and theological foundation for understanding and guiding non-Chin guests before, during, and after worship to develop a framework for intercultural worship practices at First Chin Baptist Church.

Creative Commons License
This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 License.

Citation Information
https://digitalcommons.gardner-webb.edu/divinity_etd/47