Satellite realms: Transnational television, globalization, and the Middle East

Satellite realms: transnational television, globalization, and the Middle East

Related outputs

Divergent Trajectories of Creativity and Coercion - An Introduction to the Media and Popular Culture Section

Growing PSM Organically: International Initiatives to Support National Conversations in New Contexts

Children's television in an era of digital distribution: European and Arab responses

Representing Childhood and Forced Migration: Narratives of Borders and Belonging in European Screen Content for Children
Screen Media for Arab and European Children: Policy and Production Encounters in the Multiplatform Era

Facilitating Arab-European Dialogue: Consolidated Report on an AHRC Project for Impact and Engagement

Project Report to Stakeholders: Invisible Children - Children's Media, Diversity and Forced Migration

Children's Screen Content in an Era of Forced Migration: Munich Workshop Briefing

Children's Screen Content in an Era of Forced Migration: Copenhagen Workshop Briefing

Children's Screen Content in an Era of Forced Migration: Manchester Workshop Briefing

'Smarter, stronger, kinder': Interests at stake in the remake of Iftah ya Simsim for Gulf children

Provision, protection or participation? Approaches to regulating children's television in Arab countries

Managing for sustainable journalism under authoritarianism: innovative business models aimed at good practice

Rebranding Al-Jazeera Children's Channel: The Qatarization Factor

Forces for Change in Official Arab Policies on Media and Children

Children's access to beneficial information in Arab states: Implementation of Article 17 of the Convention on the Rights of the Child in Egypt, Morocco and the United Arab Emirates

Survival or Sustainability? Contributions of Innovatively-Managed News Ventures to the Future of Egyptian Journalism

Media ‘Globalization’ as Survival Strategy for Authoritarian Regimes In the Arab Middle East

Good Practice in EU Public Service Media and Contemporary Practice in Jordan: A Comparative Analysis

Naguib Sawiris: global capitalist, Egyptian media investor

Co-producing content for pan-Arab children's TV: state, business, and the workplace
Les migrations arabes vers l'Europe méditerranéenne sous le prisme des télévisions panarabes

Transformations in Egyptian Journalism

Where Arab media magnates stand vis-a-vis globalized media flows: insights from Egypt and Saudi Arabia

'We cannot let it loose': geopolitics, security and reform in Jordanian broadcasting

Transformations in Egyptian journalism

Social media, television talk shows, and political change in Egypt

Public service initiatives in Arab media today

From satellite to screen: how Arab TV is shaped in space
Sakr, N. 2012. From satellite to screen: how Arab TV is shaped in space. in: Parks, L and Schwob, J. (ed.) Down to earth: satellite technologies, industries and cultures New Jersey Rutgers University Press. pp. 143-155

Placing political economy in relation to cultural studies: reflections on the case of cinema in Saudi Arabia

Enriching or impoverishing discourse on human rights? Talk about freedom of expression on Arab television

News, transparency and the effectiveness of reporting from inside Arab dictatorships

Le public et les 'questions de société' sur les chaînes arabes

Is the Arab TV viewer a king or a pawn? How Arab broadcasters deal with schedules and audience data

Fragmentation or consolidation? Factors in the Oprah-ization of social talk on multi-channel Arab TV

Gaps in the market: insights from scholarly work on Arab media economics

Egyptian TV in the grip of government: politics before profit in a fluid Pan-Arab market

Oil, arms and media: how US interventionism shapes Arab TV

Women and media in Saudi Arabia: rhetoric, reductionism and realities Diversity and diaspora: Arab communities and satellite communication in Europe
https://doi.org/10.1177/1742766508096082

Challenger or lackey?: The politics of news on Al-Jazeera

Arab television today

Approaches to exploring media-politics connections in the Arab world

Challenger or lackey? The politics of news on Al-Jazeera

Foreign support for media freedom advocacy in the Arab Mediterranean: globalization from above or below?
https://doi.org/10.1080/13629390500490361

Women, development and Al Jazeera: a balance sheet

Media policy in the Middle East: a reappraisal

Women and media in the Middle East: an introductory overview

Freedom of expression, accountability and development in the Arab region
https://doi.org/10.1080/14649888032000051478
Satellite Realms is one of the most important, if not the most important, books published about transnational media in the Middle East. In seven chapters, Naomi Sakr discusses the development of transnational television in the Middle East in the light of globalization. The book analyzes the relationship between transnational television and the concept of globalization, indicating that satellite television is often cited as a medium of cultural globalization. The book also discusses factors relating to media control and media policies in the Middle East, and highlights the influence of political interests and conflicts of the various states on the media landscape in the Arab world. ... SUBSCRIBE TODAY! Subscribe to Questia and enjoy Find many great new & used options and get the best deals for Satellite Realms: Transnational Television, Globalization and the Middle East by Naomi Sakr (Hardback, 2002) at the best online prices at eBay! Free delivery for many products! Why is this potential liberation yet to be fully realized in the Middle East? Format: Hardback. Read full description. See details and exclusions - Satellite Realms - 9781860646881. See all 2 brand new listings.